BNC125

TOP PRIVATE COMPANIES

SPONSORED BY

Proven performers

By David Mildenberg, Jennings Cool Roddey and Neill Caldwell

Business North Carolina's list of the state's largest private companies includes 50 enterprises with revenue topping $500 million in 2021 and combined employment of more than 140,000 staffers.

While most of the closely held companies receive limited publicity, their critical role in North Carolina's economy can't be overstated. So we appreciate the many companies that provide revenue and employment information for the BNC 125. The list, which is based on many emails, phone calls and hours of research, also includes our best estimates for those employers that decline to provide those specifics.

We try to make the list more comprehensive every year by adding businesses that we may have overlooked previously. Newcomers include Kinston-based private jet operator FlyExclusive, Charlotte law firm Moore & Van Allen, Wilmington retailer Reeds Jewelers and Dunn-based grocery chain Carlie C's IGA.

Departures from last year's list include two prominent Charlotte-based companies: payroll software developer AvidXchange went public, while fiber network and telecommunications provider Segra was acquired by Atlanta-based Cox Communications.

The list includes North Carolina-based companies controlled by private-equity groups. But most of the businesses are closely held organizations, including many family-owned operations.

Many thanks to those who contributed to this report.

 flyexclusive

Not only are we one of the fastest growing private jet companies in the U.S., we are striving to be a part of a larger cause.

We are building something that matters for our communities - for the people proud to work at flyExclusive, for their families, and for everyone who calls North Carolina home.

Because it's our home, too.

towards the future. "It's really nice to come to work every day knowing that you bring something new to the table," says Madison Howard, Marketing Manager, who is coming up on her fourth year with Systel.

Systel was established on the philosophy that providing the very best customer service is not a one-time goal, but rather a continuing commitment to innovation, quality, and attention to detail; a philosophy that is embedded in our corporate structure. "We come from all walks of life and work hand in hand" says Alvin Fletcher, Inventory/ Parts Control, a 36 year veteran of the company. "Together, we make Systel great!"

STRENGTH IN NUMBERS

CONTINUING TRADITIONS OF EXCELLENCE FROM ONE GENERATION TO THE NEXT

Systel Business Equipment was founded in Fayetteville, North Carolina on November 1, 1981 by Keith Allison. At the time, he was operating from a $10,000 loan in an office that had once been a small home, a handful of employees, and a whole lot of faith. Fast forward to 2022, and Systel's humble beginnings have grown to become a multi-million dollar company with over 250 employees and 13 office locations across the states of North Carolina, South Carolina, and Georgia.

Today, Allison has taken a back seat to the daily operations at Systel while his three daughters, Janene Aul, Jacqueline Smith, and Cara Spencer have taken the reins, after working in various areas of the business over the last 15 years. In addition to expanding Systel's territory and vast portfolio of products and solutions, Allison's daughters have placed emphasis on growing and sustaining the company culture that he created, one of which breeds loyalty and longstanding relationships among both customers, and employees. "Systel's company culture goes back to our Dad and the loyal, dedicated employees he cultivated, along with the new people we've brought in over the last couple of years," says Janene Aul, VP of Operations/ General Counsel.

From the beginning, Allison has held the belief that each employee contributes to the company's growth and success. Anita Willoughby, who recently celebrated her 38 year anniversary with Systel, says that Allison's genuine regard and appreciation for employees set the foundation for the company's culture. "Everyone became part of the family, and there was the feeling that we were helping build the business every day by helping our friends," Willoughby recalls. She is one of over a dozen current Systel employees that have been with the company for more than 30 years.

In recent years, the company has embraced a younger generation of Systel employees who serve on committees with longstanding team members, offering fresh perspectives and skill sets that contribute to company decisions and actively coincide with Allison's vision for positive progression
